My favourite out of the 4 videos was the bouncing ball one. Not only because was it more simple to do but because that it looks more polished and the quality of it looks better than the other videos.
The other videos look messy , they look rough and dont have that proper neat finish like the bouncing ball one which is why it stands out to me more.

Video 1 was just an experiment to understand the method of this type of animation which is why it looks more simple , but again it looks clean as well which is what i like about it as well.

video 2 was a start to making facial expressions change in a character so it was rather difficult but i did manage to get the hang of it , although it looks messy i do like the final outcome.

video 3 was my favourite , the movement of the frames made it look polished and it was rather easy to get done as well which is what i liked.

video 4 was a nightmare , i didnt like it at all , it was messy, not well thought of and it didnt turn out great either so i didnt like it.
