

My chosen prompt was winter.
I decided to go with winter since we are in winter as well. Id thought it would be more better since id have more reference from everyone I went past.
The colours I went with compliment the background and the season of winter, they are rather warm and more bold . The colour red is used a lot since its my favourite colour and I wanted to use that within my own character.
Using the references I had already picked out for the previous task , I tried to follow them within my work by mixing them together to come up with the finalised product.
